"GRAM" DID PICKEREL DANCE

Albert Dione, otherwise known as "Shorty", got the catch of the day at North Pond, Sunday. He proudly pulled out a five pounder as broad as his hand, not all head and tail. This he presented to his wife's grandmother, the young "Gram Dunham," who, though she had retired, was so tickled that she jumped out of bed and did a unique dance with the fish. Perhaps over the next engagement, she will do the latest "Pickerel Dance" as a new one.

MARSHALL POND POACHERS

whole trainload of cars waiting. Everybody had cars. Those apples went out quick and over six thousand dollars went into farmers' pockets. The didn't wait under the trees like they had to this year.

What makes the difference? Why the "Devil's" got our apples. Along this road, I bet there's more than the biggest lot. If there is any money to be made growing anything, you can bet a Yankee farmer finds it out. They found out growing apples was good business. The farmer that had a big business in apples found out that farm was not for sale unless you had a lot of money.

This little station of West Paris jumped the discrepancy between the surveys of the two areas. The results cannot be interpreted in favor of the latter's, which were taken from a more western bearing of its northwest boundary.

Further research in this direction came one into the archive of the day when a geologist known as Livingston Plantation and "The Gods", Turner as Royal Commission, Canada, Leeds as Port Royal Commission, as continuing the study of Chairman Fred L. Leavitt, who is particularly adept at this work, is anxious to know of further records that may be bearing on the case.

shipment of 24,540 barrels, with South Paris, West Minto, Norway and Monmouth close behind. The West Paris apples grew up on Curtis Hill.

Pretty soon men with theories, that didn't grow or deal in apples began to come out. They said they knew a lot more just as if they knew a whole lot more about the business than the men who were doing things and wanted to show us a whole lot more about it. They wanted to show us a whole lot more about the laws and inspectors and teachers.

Some of these men held offices and some others just wanted to. They wanted to tell us that they knew a lot more going to put on us to teach us how they wanted us to do things.

When we looked it over it was so darn foolish and so silly that we just laughed. But being aware that they would get something on us, we did stop and make a sensible law that anybody could understand, and any country could understand. We said that we would in a little time and drew our own leathers to pay our bills and went down to Augusta and got it passed.

Then the Augusta fellows take advantage of our weakest spots. Everybody knows that's our heads. When we got that law passed we went home and went to sleep just as if that law would do it. But the fellows that were making a law made that can do that. You've got to look out for the steering or or somebody else will do it. These talking fellows have an axe to grind, and if you don't keep your eye peeled it will be at your expense.

told me he gave one of those talking machines to the railroad president for use on his, a free pass over his whole line. I bet he was ready and willing to give me one then.

It was this way. I happened to be on the railroad where that talking and writing fellow was and he came and told me that that railroad president wanted me to come into his car and have a talk with him. So I went in and there the talking and writing fellow introduced me and then went off to let us talk over.

He told me a whole lot of things about his struggle for his road and how he gave this fellow a pass to ride as much as he wanted to. I was more interested in my apple orchard and everybody's else; and he said that he was a railroad man, didn't know that I knew his railroad and his I. M. M. on the water also; and when I got to my getting off place and had to leave he shook his finger at me and I thought, "I bet that fellow is a railroad man," guess he paid me a compliment at that.

Just the same the railroad presidents are smart. They can smell a dollar farther than that fellow could. They can't follow the track of one that is older and colder than any fox track that the best hound in creation ever followed. So when they saw there was money in the apple orchard they got a look at it.

Somehow most of the officials we elect have a glass eye made of putty that they wear on the side where they can't see. They can't see dollars. They're short sighted and were a set of mummies until we got woke up. If they weren't so short sighted they would know they were getting a dollar for every dollar coming in and no sensible jackass will do that if he knows it. They find the donkey isn't getting fat on the shavings and they're feeding him, in spite of the fact that he's getting fatter and fatter, and now they're going to feed us his lot of sawdust because it doesn't cost them anything, and they can get pay for doing it.

Here's just what they have got to force us: They're going to pass a law to make us buy a whole lot more spray and more stuff and use so much that they can't get it. They're going to make us buy more and more of their driver. Now the federal law and our s-s-t law says we can have seab as big as a circle as a crosser of an inch across it on an A grade and a crosser of an inch across it on a B grade and a crosser of an inch across it on a barrel we may have as much as fourteen pounds of apples not as good even as that and be all right. Now these fellows want to make us buy more and more and cut down your orchard if you have such a lot

That look funny?"

This fall an inspector says we can't have any of those little bits of late seed. It's a law, and it's in the law-trade, and you ask him if that's the law and he says that's our rules of inspection. So he keeps making little laws that you don't find in the law books and you can't get any of them going to the one, and you may be passed by one inspector and then condemned by another on the same apples and Mr. — fines you fifty cents and says the jail is nearby and you can't get any of them going to the one. If you don't believe this just put some of our good citizens on the stand, who have had experience.

"They keep growing worse and worse. This fall they say $10.00 for a license to load any kind of apples, and you've got to pay for inspection, and pay the toll for taking a nice ride in an automobile.

"They haven't jobs enough for all the boys who don't want to work after we've nearly broke our backs and our pockets, to give them an education, so they plan to take the boys out of the orchard and send them down to the mills. If we don't send more money than we can get out of the orchard, to buy spray and dust and everything else, they say we've got to leave the orchard fixed up."

"You look here, boys, we've had enough of this nonsense. We're getting away from twenty-one and our backs are stiffer than they used to be and we haven't

TOWN

Perplexities of the Apple Dealer

By R. L. Cummings of West Paris

What's the matter with our apple business? "Well to be polite, it's 'busted'!" that's about it. Most everybody knows what that means now. I just got sight of some of my old checks for November 1916, $16,351.21 for one month paid for apples. So it runs in the apple months up to over $50,000, in Oct. 1924. I remember a year back of that. A lot of us were shipping to Minneapolis Lake and Rail. Weather getting mighty cold. Navigation to close up. The railroad fellows said they hadn't any cars for us. I knew a real railroad fellow in Portland. His name was Gardiner. He was the real goods. If there was a loose car on the road and you needed it you'd get it pronto.

I told him my story, and when I got there, early the next morning, he had a whole trainload of cars waiting. Everybody had cars. Those apples went out quick and over six thousand dollars went into farmers' pockets. They didn't freeze up under the trees like they had to this year.

What makes the difference? Why the "Devil's" got our business. That's the matter.

When I first handled apples along this road 700 barrels was about the biggest lot. If there is any money to be made growing anything, you can bet a Yankee farmer finds it out. They found out growing apples was good business. The farmer that had a big orchard made money and that farm was not for sale unless you had a lot of money.

This little station of West Paris jumped up to head the list of this state with a shipment of 24,540 barrels, with South Paris, West Paris, Norway, and Monmouth close behind. I know just where 4,000 barrels of the West Paris apples grew up on Curtis Hill.

Pretty soon men with theories, that didn't grow or deal in apples began to talk and write about the apple business just as if they knew a whole lot more about the business than the men who were doing things and wanted to show us a whole lot of things. That we must have a whole lot of laws and inspectors and teachers.

Some of these men held offices and some others just wanted to. They had a law all made up that they said they were going to put on us to teach us how they wanted us to do things.

When we looked it over it was so darn foolish it would make a horse or any sensible donkey laugh. But being aware that they could get something on us, we did stop and make a sensible law that anybody could understand, and any common lawyer couldn't misunderstand, put in a little time and drew our own leathers to pay our bills and went down to Augusta and got it passed.

It's funny how these fellows take advantage of our weakest spots. Everybody knows that's our heads. When we got that law passed we went home and went to sleep just as if that law would take care of itself and us too. Never was a law made that can do that; you've got to look out for the steering or or somebody else will do it. These talking fellows usually have an axe to grind and if you don't keep your eye peeled it will be at your expense.

There's another thing: These railroad presidents are mighty sharp; one of them told me he gave one of these talking fellows that was going to fix that law for us, a free pass over his whole line. I bet he was ready and willing to give me one then.

It was this way. I happened to be on the same train where that talking and writing fellow was and he came and told me that that railroad president wanted me to come into his car and have a talk with him. Sure enough I went and the talking and writing fellow introduced me and then went off to let us talk it over.

He told me a whole lot of things about his struggles for his road and how he gave this fellow a pass to ride as much as he wanted to. I was more interested in my apple orchard and everybody's else; we were in the same boat of course. He didn't know that I knew his railroad and his I. M. M. on the water also; and when I got to my getting off place and had to leave he shook his finger at me and hollered, "You're a dangerous man".

I guess he paid me a compliment at that. Just the same the railroad presidents are smart. They can smell a dollar further than a cat can smell a mouse, and they can follow the track of one that is older and colder than any fox track that the best hound in creation ever followed. So when they saw there was money in raising apples, they get it before we ever have a chance to get a look at it.

Somehow most of the officials we elect have a glass eye made of putty that they wear on the side where the big fellows walk, to get our dollars. They're short sighted and were a set of mummies until we got woke up. If they weren't so ternal short sighted they would know they were saving off the limb they were standing on and no sensible jackass will do that if he knows it. They find the donkey isn't getting fat on the shavings they've been feeding him, in spite of the pretty green glasses they put on his face, and now they're going to feed us a lot of sawdust because it doesn't cost them anything, and they can get pay for doing it.

Here's just what they have got in for us: They're going to pass a law to make us buy a whole lot more spray and dust stuff and use so much that they say we won't have any apple scab nor trieter. Now the federal law and our state law says we can have scab as big as a circle a quarter of an inch across it on an A grade and another as big as a half inch across it on a B grade and that in a barrel we may have as much as fourteen pounds of apples not as good even as that and be all right. Now these fellows want a law that will give them a chance to cut down your orchard if you have such apples as these growing on them. Don't that look funny?

This fall an inspector says we can't have any of these little bits of late scab spots that you can't hardly see on an A grade, and you ask him if that's the law and he says that's our rules of inspection. So, here keep making little laws that you can't find in the law books and you don't know when they're going to make one, and you may be passed by one inspector and then condemned by another on the same apples and Mr. — fines you fifty and says the jail is nearby and we can arrest you any time we want you. If you don't believe this just put some of our good citizens on the stand, who have had experience.

They keep growing worse and worse. This fall I had to pay $10.00 for a license to load any kind of apples, and you've got to pay for inspection, and pay the fellow for taking a nice ride in an automobile.

Now they haven't jobs enough for all the boys who don't want to work after we've nearly broke our backs and our pockets, to give them an education, so they plan to let another swarm loose on us to cut down our orchards if we don't spend more money than we can get out of the orchard, to buy spray and dust and everything else. They say they've got to have this law fixed right off.

Now look here, boys, we've had enough of this nonsense. We're getting away past twenty-one and our backs are stiffer than they used to be and we haven't the snap in our legs that there used to be, but we haven't got "fool in the head" yet. We want to just tell you that you're going too far. From the working direction we hear a holler for a work day of six hours, and five days a week and if we don't do all this and all that, "busted!" that's about it. — or somebody else come and boss the job of cutting down our apple trees that are still growing apples that the law says are A and B grade. Now these boys weren't such darn fools before they went away to school or got their eye on some job where they won't have to do any hard work. Well, they haven't got it done yet, and I'll bet they'll hear the tramp of Uncle "Solon Chase's Cowhide Boots" before they're done with the job.

OXFORD—FORE STREET

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stearns of Norway were at their summer home here, Sunday.

Al Twitchell is still caring for David Staples of Welchville, having taken him into his home.

Flora Cummings visited Mrs. Howard Swan of South Paris, Jan. 15-18, attending the Sunshine Club held with Mrs. Swan, the 15th, going to the Baptist chicken pie supper the 16th; taking dinner with the Grangers, the 17th, and enjoying the church services and Sunday school with the Baptists on Sunday. The Swans brought Mrs. Cummings home, Sunday afternoon, calling a few minutes to see Mrs. Cummings' display of Christmas gifts, which she still has arranged on her dining table.

Mr. and Mrs. Judkins Cummings of West Paris called at E. E. Twitchell's, Sunday, the 18th.

Mrs. Chestina Twitchell Brown is still clerking in Merchant's dry goods store, going to and from her work each day by auto.

Mr. Brown was out from the woods for over Sunday, the 18th.

The beautiful snow fall of January 12th remained quietly where it fell, except as the snow plows passed it out of the highway and streets and the world passed gaily, at least a part of it, along, a few on runners, hugging the ragged edges of snow, but mostly by auto with never a sigh for other climates "so delightful right at home".

Mrs. Amelia Hutchins spent the day, Wednesday, with Mrs. Florence Baker.

The game was enjoyed until ten o'clock, lunch was then served, consisting of sandwiches, doughnuts and coffee, after which dancing was in order. Their popularity is hardly to be wondered at.

Heard and Seen at Advertiser Office

The sun now rises at 7:07 and sets at 4:46; the day has lengthened 34 minutes thus far and by the last day in January will have gained 51 minutes.

Sent in: "Negro carolers sang at Lincoln's tomb in Springfield, Ill. last Christmas for the first time in history."

A gold locket and chain, lost on Main Street, is advertised in the Intelligence Column. Finder will do a great favor by leaving it in this office. We will get in touch with the owner.

A medium sized rubber for the right shoe was brought in Friday by Ernest Martin, who found it near Witherell Park. Would be glad to make a turn over to the owner.

Geraldine Woods, Oxford Park, South Paris, sent us a pair of glasses she found on Beal or Tucker street about two weeks ago. The name of the optician, Ralph H. Wright, Boston, is on the case. Owner can find them in our office museum.

J. Shirley Stevenson has an ad in this issue regarding the office of Town Clerk. Read it. Mr. Stevenson will be a candidate for the office.

J. Harry Stuart of South Paris says he has the old original plan of the track of land under controversy on page 2 of this issue, which is entitled "Tract of Land in Poland, Not in Otisfield."

Fred M. Davis, formerly of Norway, who entertains with Chief Welch, the medicine man, has written a story about pitchmen, and life on the road. We expect to print it soon for the hardships are described and much the public accepts is debunked.

The Wickersham Commission has made its report, the Methodist Church bell in Rochester, N. H., has been rung, celebrating the victory. So reports the papers. This undoubtedly settles the temperance matters for the whole country!

Carroll DeCoster and Harry Goodwin, under the firm name of DeCoster & Goodwin, are selling fresh eggs and dressed poultry and run a delivery route making deliveries, Tuesdays and Fridays.

Some people have forgotten to hang up a new calendar or are taking a long chance with the law. It is said at least two autos have been seen with last year's number plates, within a week. About time to change, believe it or not.

Somehow we are greatly favored. Never received so many calendars, almanacs and dies as in the recent past. We have nineteen different specimens of "long tails." Each one is perfect and a killer. I. W. W.'s "Last Resorts" and "Shorties" and "Best." A train of fly beggars is assured when the fishing season opens.

As the annual town meeting approaches people begin to talk of new town officers. We have heard so far to two—David Klein for town clerk and Ray Eastman for selectman. Beyond question there will be others popping out. Some say give the young fellows a show.

Dr. R. S. Houghton of St. Louis, Mo., has placed an ad in this paper. He has opened an office in the Pratt building at South Paris, for the practice of his profession. He is an osteopathic physician and Rectal Specialist.

E. W. Brown, or "Pete R. G. Truthful Brown" is again in the wilds of Hallowell this winter and says, "he has not much to read and wants to send him a copy of this paper for three months." We can't see how that is going to help him very much.

Albert A. Town, chairman of the Southern Oxford Chapter of Red Cross, calls attention to the annual meeting to be held at the Norway Municipal Court room on Saturday, Jan. 31st, at 2 o'clock for the election of officers and to make plans for the drive for funds. See ad. in this issue.

W. H. Farrington of Center Lovell called in Saturday. He has returned from a month's stay in Florida and has been stopping with a daughter and husband at Fryburg. He figured an amusing squabble near Portland, badly damaged the front of his car, but only received slight injury to the left wrist.

Judge Robert B. Dow, and attorney Shirley Stevenson with offices in the Old Fellows' Block, are bothered with too much static electricity. On Monday, sparks could be drawn by a finger from light fixtures, steam pipes, iron safes and other metal objects. How, when, and where, they know not. Getting shot with rubber soles was suggested as a cure.

Mrs. Alma P. Hayden writes: "For a number of years I have not made any account of my birthdays, have just let them pass without any publicity, so what was my surprise to receive a lovely birthday card from Mrs. Estelle Crocker Bell, saying that I had written the date in her 'birthday book' in 1884."

James F. C. Walker of Oxford Park brought a nice, fresh cucumber to the office, Wednesday. The cucumber is one-half inches long, ten and one-half inches in circumference, and weighs one pound and twelve ounces. Picked in October, the specimen was placed in a sunny window and there remained until left in care of the Sports Editor. James says the cucumber is larger than when picked, hence it must be an air-feeder, or drawing on itself, perpetual motion like.

John Simpson of South Paris has a copy of the Rhodesia Herald published in British South Africa, which is a metropolitan magazine in every particular. Being a pioneer number the early struggles and later British conquests are emphasized. The advertising is decidedly American and sporting events, especially the game of cricket, is featured with political and fraternal stories. If we have ideas that Africa is a black continent, overrun with jungles and head hunters, one glance at the splendid half tones will knock that out. Mr. Simpson received the paper from his brother, Alexander Simpson, a native of Scotland, who migrated to Africa thirty years ago.

"Who's Who in the East" for 1930, is a volume of 2323 pages. It was gotten out by the Mayflower Publishing Company of Washington, D. C. In the publisher's preface it states: "An individual gains admission to 'Who's Who in the Eastern States' only by virtue of his attainments and no one can purchase his way into this publication."

While there is a large number of persons in the book from Maine, there are only a very few from Oxford County and of this few, Norway has four—all solicited by the publisher—an unusual honor for the town. Their names are: Dr. and Madam Sealar Stephens, Hugh Pendexter and Judge C. F. Whitman. The names of Don C. Seitz and Walter L. Sanborn are in the book. These added to the others make a pretty big showing for one town like Norway.

Dr. F. E. Mitchell, Alton, N. H., adds his mite by saying:

"I've been much interested in all you have published about Ordway's Grove. Mr. Don C. Seitz has performed a truly noble act. A tree is a thing of beauty, and a symbol of patience, fidelity and persistence. If protected from the ravages of man and of insects, a tree will persist until its roots are entrenched and able to send growth into its branches; this even when the soil is weak and the conditions adverse."

Would it be a stretch of imagination to look upon a tree as a friend, almost a brother, of man? It stands ready to protect him from sun and wind and rain. And it waits patiently for such opportunity."

A village without trees, without a grove of them in close proximity, has a deserted and lifeless appearance. Whenever I see a tree on a hot summer day, I imagine I hear it whisper, "Come hither and enjoy my shade."

By all means, preserve Ordway's Grove. And fix it, if you can, so that it will be preserved indefinitely.

Harry Shorey of the Bridgton News says:

"The Norway Advertiser has won out in its valiant fight for preservation of 'Ordway's Grove,' which all goes to show that the pen is mightier than the axe. Don Seitz, formerly of Norway and a former business manager of the New York World, now a free lance, has come to the rescue and has placed it in trust in a deed to Clarence G. Morton, of South Paris, under the provisions that he shall hold it until some suitable body can be found to take it over in perpetuity."

"We don't know just what Ordway's Grove is nor where it is located, but we congratulate the editor of the Advertiser upon his successful fight. Mr. Seitz is running the best country newspaper in the state, but we can't see to win him over to the belief that it would be greatly improved if he would include among his features a good live editorial column."

"He may be like the minister, who was urging the young fellow just out of school to go to college. The youngster's argument was: 'I'm making more money than you are right now, why should I go to college?'"

28, at the home of B. G. McIntire, at 7:30, to make further plans for the year's work.

Methodist

One of the most powerful and helpful sermons that has been given in the history of the little white church on Beal Street was given by our pastor, Rev. Mr. Lyon, at the morning service of worship last Sunday, Jan. 18. The sermon was given through the definite channels of the minister's own private experience through a number of years. The color and insight of the heart-given message will long be in the minds of those who attended. His subject was "Four Reasons Why I Turn to Jesus." The Senior Epworth League was largely attended at the 6:15 session. Elmer L. Aldrich was the leader of these young people and his topic was "Builders." The message was clearly given and made its appeal.

In the evening, at the 7 o'clock service, Rev. Mr. Lyon gave the first installment in the series of services to be given Sunday evenings at the church. The sermon stories as given by the minister are taken from the pen of Harold Bell Wright's novel, "God and the Grocerman." During the evening story-sermon, although the pastor spoke for fifty minutes, there was silent hush over the big congregation as though a fairy's wand was being silently used in magic influence. Many people who were present expressed a desire to hear the entire series as outlined by the minister, and as the story is unfolded, step by step, the old story becomes new and enthralling as a new tale that has "never been told." The plot was given as an opening introduction, and a synopsis and background of the author's dream were likewise vividly portrayed. The story is dramatically given by Rev. Mr. Lyon, who uses music as an instrument of interpretation. "Fascinating, gripping, and inspiring," is the reviewer's comment on the drama-novel, and it is expected that these Sunday evening presentations will continue to attract large crowds eager to fill the church auditorium. A big attendance last Sunday evening greeted the pastor when he came from his study into the church. By request, Mr. Lyon sang a vocal solo.

The junior vested choir sang a special number, and a song service participated in by all, was an enjoyable feature. It is expected that because of numerous requests, the pantomime "Silent Night, Holy Night," will be an added attraction in the evening's service program. Nine young ladies will take part in this beautiful and dramatic episode. Everybody is welcome.

Next Sunday morning Rev. A. I. Oliver, district superintendent of the Methodist Churches in the Rockland district, will be present at the 10:30 morning service of worship. Rev. Oliver will preach the sermon and will go with Rev. Lyon to Baker's Mills in the afternoon for that service there at 2 o'clock. After the evening service in Norway, Rev. Mr. Oliver will hold the Fourth Quarterly Conference with the official board of the church.

It is expected that Elmer Aldrich will continue to serve as leader with the progressing young people of the Epworth League society. The meeting starts promptly at 6:15. All young folks invited.

Rev. Mr. Lyon was the afternoon speaker at one of the very best attended meetings that has recently been held in South Paris under the auspices of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. A large representation of the ladies assembled at the home of Mrs. Agnes Morton on Pine Street. The topic as chosen by Mr. Lyon was "Temperance A Success." He spoke of the prohibition problem and its legalistic prerogatives as something decidedly different from the Temperance challenge with its moral inherent individual tendencies. He said, "Temperance is a quality of the soul and prohibition a product of the law." "The next election," he said, "will be not a matter of choosing a candidate who as president promises strict enforcement, but it will be a matter of whether the country will vote to repeal the 18th amendment or whether it will hold tenaciously to its dry program."

Mr. Lyon reviewed the ten years of prohibition and proved the Temperance success is fully assured because of education, science and philosophy, which a progressing, morally thinking, Christian nation is bound to individually and collectively accept in its onward march in the realm of spiritual and altruistic achievement.

The Ladies' Circle will meet Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Glenn B. McIntire, Pleasant Street, for work and a social hour. Last week, there were 25 at the parsonage, and good progress was made on a quilt.

Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at the Norway Buick salesroom, the ladies are holding a food sale, with Mrs. Maude DeCoster, Mrs. Bessie Hill and Mrs. Rose Everett in charge. The committee will be glad to receive orders for anything wanted specially, also baked beans, and brown bread.

Next Wednesday evening at 7:15 the Home Department will meet in the vestry. Hostesses for the evening, Mrs. Adie Olmstead.

The church, in their reading of the scriptures, began the Second Epistle of Paul to the Corinthians on Tuesday, Jan. 20th, reading a chapter a day. Read with us. The subject of the book is the principles and practice of the Apostle. A personal letter in defense of himself, his mission and his message.

Eugene F. Hayden and Ronell G. Bicknell have been drawn as traverse jurors for the February term of Superior Court at South Paris.

NORWAY LAKE

Mrs. Jennie Bennett was called to Hudson, N. Y., Monday, by the illness of her son, William Bennett. Mr. Bennett shipped and fell onto the street, injuring his head. Mrs. Bennett made the trip by auto, with Roger Adams, and was accompanied by Mrs. Howard Bennett and little son, Gerald.

Healy and daughter, Mary, spent the week end in Portland with relatives. They were accompanied by Asa D. Frost, who visited his son, Alton, and wife, at South Portland.

Kathleen Leas was ill and unable to attend the performance of the play in New Bedford, for he was too busy with his summer trade at that time. Later, however, he witnessed the portrayal of "Shavings" in Boston.

Lincoln first met "Shavings" many years before the book was written. He was building a new home and Edwards was hired as a carpenter.

FIRE AT BRIDGTON

Two families, scantily clad, were driven into the snow early Wednesday, as fire destroyed a large stable and all of their home. The main house also was damaged. Loss was placed at $7,000. The families were those of Philip and Roy Staley.

The drama "Memory Lane" for the benefit of the First Department of North Waterford will be played at the I. O. O. F. Hall at North Waterford, Friday evening, January 30.

'SHAVINGS' AT 73, WHITTLES WINDMILLS THAT WON HIM FAME IN LINCOLN PLAY

The following is of special local interest, as the drama by that name will be presented here next week.

"Chatham has lost its noted character, 'Shavings,' for the winter months. A. B. Edwards, made famous by Joseph Lincoln in his novel, 'Shavings,' is at present in Wollaston, whitening out the same type of windmills that won him fame in 1920 when Lincoln's book was dramatized. At the age of 73 he is preparing stock for his summer shop at Chatham.

"The typical Cape Cod Carpenter and windmill maker is still a little doubtful that he is the original of Lincoln's 'Shavings.'"

"You remember," he says, "how the book describes an old bachelor, who had a liking for a widow. Now, right there is a difference between me and the character in the book because I'm married and have two sons and two daughters. One of my sons and one of my daughters live here in Wollaston."

"He recalled, however, a visit ten years ago at his shop, from John McKee, stage manager for Henry Savage, accompanied by Mrs. McKee.

"They came in, looked around, and bought about $300 worth of goods that they wanted shipped to New York," he related. "I learned a little while later that Savage was producing Joe Lincoln's book in New York. Then McKee sent me a letter which said, 'We have taken your shop as a model for the stage arrangement of our company. Come down to New York when the play is produced and see how the people here like your shavings shop.'"

"Shavings did not go. Neither did he attend the performance of the play in New Bedford, for he was too busy with his summer trade at that time. Later, however, he witnessed the portrayal of 'Shavings' in Boston.

"Lincoln first met 'Shavings' many years before the book was written. He was building a new home and Edwards was hired as a carpenter.

PREPARE FOR SUMMER TRADE

As in 1930, the visitor will not spend as much money on his vacation (this year) as he did in 1929. He will not travel as far and he will shop even more closely for lodging, for food, for recreational facilities.

Those businesses which derive their income from those who seek recreation in New England must be better prepared in 1931 than ever before to offer accommodations, facilities and services at the lowest possible prices to "pay at prices" which he is willing and able to buy."

Do we need to put our house in order?

Winter trends to increase the highway walkers. Safety to increase the drivers of cars is threatened by facing the oncoming cars on the left hand side of the road, as you hike. It's the only right way. Think it over.

Saco Valley United Parish

Ministering to Lovell, Fryeburg Harbor, North, West and Center, Fryeburg, Stow, Union Hill and Toll Bridge.

The first supper-meeting of the Pioneers of the whole parish, held at the Harbor, Friday evening, was a big success. The ladies brought grub and fixed up the meal, and after the tables were cleared, the regular business and social part was held. Raymond Larabee of Fryeburg Academy was guest speaker, and gave a very interesting chat with demonstrations on magnetism and electricity. Then followed all kinds of relay races and games, finished up with some interesting wrestling. Lovell vs. The Harbor, with Normal Allen and Willis Guphill wrestling for the honor of their home place, was a keen best, with Willis' extra weight finally telling in favor of the Harbor. About two dozen boys were present from Lovell, North Fryeburg, Stow, Union Hill and the Harbor. The evening closed with a short business session in which it was unanimously agreed to hold all-parish supper meetings every two weeks.

Horvally the guest, the bulletin and the phone broadcast the news that the Bates College Delegation would visit the parish a week earlier than at first planned. Although they got delayed back in the States, the Bates delegation, consisting of Mr. L. B. Bates, President, Franklin Larabee, and Russell Guphill, all seniors of Bates College, turned up in the middle of the supper at Lovell, Saturday evening. After the supper, the young fellows were divided into a very lively games period. During the fun, the Lovell Pioneers attempted to "beat" the Bates boys in a "time birthday" contest, but weren't as successful as they were in the races and contests.

The college boys spoke at all the parish services on Sunday. Bates and Larabee addressed the church at the Harbor in the morning, and Bates at the Harbor in the evening. Bates also conducted the morning service at North Fryeburg and spoke at the Harbor in the evening. All three students visited West Fryeburg for the afternoon service. The boys returned back to Lovell on Sunday night.

Information having been received from the Conway Power League, the Harbor young people will take as many young people as possible to a social in the Harbor on Friday evening.

Two very interesting and beautiful colored sets of slides, one on South-East Africa, the other on "Twenty-One Nationalities in One Church," have come from Boston, and will be shown at all services in the parish. Stow and then North Fryeburg, the community get together, and Mr. Perry will show them at 6:30 p.m. preliminary to the evening service at Lovell.

The Winter Carnival will be on St. Paul's Day. Everybody should get prepared up on snowshoes and skis.
